

7th Superconductivity Summer School

5–8 July 2022, Wolfson College, University of Oxford, UK

Organised by the IOP Superconductivity Group in collaboration with
The European Society for Applied Superconductivity (ESAS)

Organising committee:

- Dr Ziad Melhem
(conference chair)
Oxford Quantum Solutions,
Oxford, UK
- Dr Mark Ainslie
University of Cambridge, UK

Lancaster University, UK
- Professor Susannah Speller
University of Oxford, UK

This three and a half day Summer School on Superconductivity will deliver an introduction to superconducting materials and application covering:

- Fundamentals of superconductivity
- Small applications
- Large applications
- Materials
- Modelling
- Measurements
- Superconducting Quantum Devices
- Attendee contribution session
- Panel discussion session
- Site visit to Oxford Instruments

The school is aimed primarily at postgraduate students but is also open to undergraduates, academics, engineers, consultants and other practitioners.

Key dates:

- Registration opening
April 2022
